

For Week of April 27, 2015

My Best Friend

Dadi Janki has always given me so much love and respect. When Dadi came to Brazil for the first time, we sang for her on her arrival at the airport: "Baba, Tera Banne Me". Since then Dadi has asked many times for me to sing this song and I have sung it many times for her in Madhuban. She always appreciates our gestures of love. On this first visit to Brazil Dadi asked who would like to dedicate intensively to yoga and assimilation of the points of the murli. I answered that yes, I would, because she encouraged us to help in service in an elevated form. In a visit to Madhuban (when I completed 50 years of age), Dadi had a beautiful meeting with Brazilians, and she gave me blessings of my qualities. This was a great incentive for my spiritual progress. In another trip to Madhuban (when I completed 57 years), Dadi blessed me, saying that I was her best friend, and in the end I would give experiences of visions. These good wishes from Dadi kept me always full of faith and courage. I am very grateful to Baba that he gave me such a divine instrument for my life and spiritual service.

Words of Wisdom

Now, how do we have to look at each other? With great love and respect. Do you see everyone with this vision? By looking with this type of drishti not only will your face blossom but you will make the faces of others blossom too!

In order to really become good, I have to be able to love myself. Never become tired of loving the self. When I love and respect myself then I can offer love and respect to others. When your life becomes a life of quality you will be able to experience a great deal of love from God. You will also experience love from others. We need to understand this clearly. When you practice these things you will know what to do and how to do it.

Everyone needs love. Animals also need love. Let me not do anything that would mean I have to regret any of my actions. God is my friend, everyone is my friend... with this awareness this becomes such an elevated life. And developing this awareness does not take time. It is a wonder! When I keep my thoughts truthful and honest then patience and sweetness emerge internally. There is then lightness because the soul has become successful in its efforts. To reach this stage, let your effort be consistent.

Good wishes for others work wonders. Keep good wishes for others and you give them the chance to change. With good wishes the impossible becomes possible. To make the impossible possible faith is required. Courage, faith and pure feelings not only increase my own enthusiasm and intoxication but they also help others a great deal.

Drishti Point

I know that Baba is my best friend and keep connected with Him so that I can be a friend to all and give them strength and encouragement. I connect to the power of pure vision for all and appreciate the role of each one I meet.

Karma Yoga Point

I, the soul, have faith in my own qualities and feel the blessings that God has for me, filling me with power and courage. I know that I shall be victorious and feel victory in every task I undertake today.